COMBAT RATION PACK

- A field ration, or combat ration, is a canned or pre-packaged meal, easily prepared and eaten, transported by military troops on the battlefield. They are distinguished from regular military rations by virtue of being designed for minimal preparation in the field, using canned, pre-cooked or freeze-dried foods, powdered beverage mixes and concentrated food bars, as well as for long shelf life.
- Such meals also prove invaluable for disaster relief operations, where large stocks of these can be ferried and distributed easily, and provide basic nutritional support to victims before kitchens can be set up to produce fresh food.
- Most armies in the world today now field some form of pre-packaged combat ration, suitably tailored to meet national or ethnic tastes.

UNIFO has developed the rations packs into lighter, more nutritious and receptive packages, replacing canned food with in-house developed retort products and adding better quality accessories such as fruit bars, isotonic drinks and flameless heaters.

The entire system of UNIFOOD productions are designed for large-scale yet flexible productions to meet the market demands in line with international hygiene standards of ISO: 22000 & HACCP quality standards.

UNIFOOD retort pouches are of high quality, allowing food to be sealed and cooked inside without ever exposing it to the air again until opened.

- This special processing technology allows the food to be sterilized inside the pouch and protected from contamination and loss of flavour.

- UNIFO MRE's are long lasting foods (minimum 2 years) that do not require cold storage. No additives are used to prolong the shelf life.

The multilayered retort pouches are hermetically sealed, able to withstand minimum pressure of 100kg and suitable for airdrop and rough handling. The tear notch at both sides are for easy opening.

A COMBAT RATION PACK CONSISTS OF;

- Breakfast, lunch, dinner meals
